LSNA Executive Director’s Message

Rita J. Finn, RN, MSN, Executive Director

Hello again. While this is the fall issue of the Pelican News, we here in Louisiana know we are going to have to wait a few more months before we feel the first frosty breezes of the North wind. Still there is a pleasant reassurance in the certainty of autumn starting on September 22nd no matter the weather. It feels like a mandate to burn pumpkin scented candles, buy new boots, or start thinking about the World Series and yes, even the holidays.

LSNA is gearing up for the autumn season too. Plans are well underway for the Annual LSNA CNE Cruise leaving on November 7, 2013 and sailing from New Orleans to Cozumel and returning on November 11, 2013. It is not too late to book your cabin and registered for the CNE offering. There is complete information in this issue of the Pelican and on the LSNA website. Come sail with us, and bring your family and friends. The cruise is always a good time, and the nicest way I can think of to get CNE hours.

The 13th Annual Louisiana Awards Gala, sponsored by the Louisiana Nurses Foundation will take place on Saturday, February 22, 2014 at the Crowne Plaza Baton Rouge. Please take a few minutes to nominate a new nurse, a mentor, or a peer that personifies nursing excellence. You can also nominate a hospital, school of nursing, or other healthcare provider that demonstrates excellence in healthcare. The nomination forms and further information can be found in this Pelican and on the LSNA website.

On September 7, 2013 Dr. Carol Tingle, LSNA president will conduct the first full meeting of the LSNA board of directors which will include the newly elected LSNA officers. Just a few of the many items to be discussed at this meeting will be the progress of the South Central Multi-State Division and the on-going work of Strategic planning.

In closing, I would like to take this occasion to say how pleased the staff members at the LSNA office are to have the opportunity to work with Dr. Carol Tingle. She comes to the LSNA presidency with a long history of membership and service in LSNA which includes committee work, and a position as the Louisiana leader in a multi-state nursing advocacy program. She brings a wealth of clinical, educational and management experience to her role as president. Most notably, Carol is a true visionary. She is a gifted leader, strong in the wisdom needed to guide LSNA into the future while never losing sight or respect for the work that has come before. Carol has a great sense of humor too so we look forward to a focused, busy, and productive, two years with a bit of fun along the way.

Welcome, Carol.

ANA Holds Inaugural Membership Assembly
Meeting ushers in new strategic direction for Association

SILVER SPRING, MD – The American Nurses Association (ANA) held its inaugural Membership Assembly Friday, June 28 through Saturday, June 29 in Crystal City, Va. The Assembly brought together representatives from ANA’s constituent and state nurses associations, Individual Membership Division, ANA Board of Directors and ANA’s specialty nursing organizational affiliates to develop a framework for shaping the future of the Association and the nursing profession.

The Membership Assembly, ANA’s new governing and policy-making body, replaced the previous governing body, the House of Delegates, which ANA members voted to dissolve in 2012.

Using the theme, “A Look into the Future: Advancing the Association; Advancing the Profession,” representatives explored pressing nursing and health care issues as part of an environmental scan to better position ANA to anticipate trends that may impact the nursing profession. The environmental scan also laid the foundation for policies and positions to ensure a stronger nursing presence in the emerging health care delivery system.

Assembly representatives discussed the important and sometimes competing interests regarding access to care, care coordination, patient outcomes, and licensure issues. In terms of specific actions, they referred a licensure jurisdiction proposal back to the ANA Board of Directors. The board will further review licensure implications for nurses who provide technology-enabled care, including follow-up phone calls after patient discharge, across state lines.

Representatives also voted on bylaws, or governing amendments, which included approving a timeline for smoothly transitioning to a smaller board of directors. Additionally, representatives adopted a structure that acknowledges registered nurses who are full members of a constituent/state nurses association as holding concurrent membership in ANA.

Assembly attendees also welcomed two new state nurses associations from Illinois and New York and celebrated the Alabama State Nurses Association’s centennial.

In advance of the Membership Assembly, on Thursday, June 27, hundreds of nurses met with federal legislators on Capitol Hill in Washington, D.C. as part of ANA’s annual Lobby Day to advocate for critical nursing issues, including safe staffing and eliminating scope of practice barriers.

The Membership Assembly will continue to meet annually. In 2014, the Assembly will elect a new slate of officers. For more information, please visit www.nursingworld.org.

Leafing Through the Future

The Assembly also focused on the strategic plan that will help ANA be more customer-focused, with the ultimate goal of advancing the profession. Representatives recommended that ANA’s strategic plan:

- Be customer-focused and place an emphasis on accountability;
- Be action-oriented and measurable;
- Be results-driven and have an action plan with timelines and milestones;
- Emphasize engagement; and
- Show how ANA is transforming its programs, products and services to better serve nurses – from webinars on handling and mobility standards.

“The American Nurses Association’s (ANA) momentous Membership Assembly came to a close after representatives took action on several bylaws amendments and discussed licensure for cross-border nursing practice.

As part of the two-day meeting, ANA Chief Executive Officer Marla J. Weston, PhD, RN, FAAN, addressed how ANA has transformed its programs, products and services to better serve nurses – from webinars on building effective leadership skills to the development of groundbreaking, national interdisciplinary safe patient handling and mobility standards.

“I have been a member of ANA for 25 years, but I have come to understand just this year, in a really profound way, what it means to be an association,” Weston said. “An association is defined as people banded together for a special purpose. We are the American Nurses Association, and our special purpose is to promote our profession and improve health for all.”

In terms of actions, Assembly representatives referred a licensure jurisdiction proposal back to the ANA Board of Directors. The board will further review licensure implications for nurses who provide technology-enabled care, including follow-up phone calls after patient discharge, across state lines.

Representatives also voted on bylaws, or governing, amendments, which included approving a timeline for smoothly transitioning to a smaller ANA Board of Directors. And they adopted a structure that acknowledges RNs who are full members of a constituent/state nurses association as holding concurrent membership in ANA.

In closing, ANA President Karen A. Daley, PhD, RN, FAAN, thanked participants who made the accomplishments of this past year and the past two days possible.

“As you prepare to head back home to your associations, I encourage you to reflect on how we came together, worked together and led together,” she said. “This is the start of our new beginning, and I strongly encourage you to stay engaged and keep thinking and planning for our bright future together.”

Academy of Nursing Education  Dr. Debra Shelton, nurse educators to the next class of inductees into the Washington, D.C. in September. These individuals join the will be inducted in the seventh group of inductees in University Health & Sciences Center in New Orleans, and Dr. Jane Sumner, Professor from Louisiana State Associate Professor from Northwestern State University, in September, October, November 2013 Pelican News • Page 5 programs throughout the United States.

The NLN established the Academy of Nursing Education in 2007 to foster excellence in nursing education by recognizing and capitalizing on the wisdom of nurse educators who have made sustained and significant contributions to nursing education. Fellows provide visionary leadership in nursing education and in the Academy of Nursing Education and support the vision of the NLN to promote standards of excellence in nursing education that will increase the number of graduates from all types of nursing programs. Fellows serve as important role models and resources for new educators and for those who aspire to become nurse educators.

Said by Dr. Beverly A. Malone, NLN CEP, “The National League for nursing relies on these accomplished individuals as allies in our efforts to prepare the numbers of excellent nurse educators we need if we are to eliminate the shortage of nurses plaguing America’s health care institutions. Nurse faculty and colleagues from other fields who contribute to excellence in nursing education and to the preparation of a nursing workforce that meets the needs of our ever-changing health care environment deserve this public recognition and the gratitude of all who are eager to elevate the status of the profession.”

As a newly named fellow, Dr. Shelton and Dr. Sumner, have been lauded for their innovative teaching and/or learning strategies; nursing education research; faculty development; academic leadership; promotion of public policy that advances nursing education; and/or collaborative educational, practice or community partnerships.
The Louisiana State Nurses Association operates an approval program for nursing continuing education. The Continuing Education Committee - Approver Unit is a Member Services Committee of LSNA. Committee members serve as reviewers of proposed continuing nursing education activities and provider applications. The CE Committee would like to welcome its newest members Dr. Rhonda Johnson and Stacy Mayeux. If you are interested in becoming reviewer, contact the LSNA office. LSNA CE Committee members must be an LSNA member and have a MSN in nursing and experience as a nurse educator.

The American Nurses Credentialing Center released continuing nursing education criteria revisions that became effective January 1, 2013. LSNA and the Continuing Education Committee have updated our provider and individual educational activity application forms, criteria, instructions and review forms. These are available on the LSNA website. LSNA also has several copies of 2013 ANCC Mini-Manuals for Educational Design Process, Approved Providers and Individual Activity Applicants for sale for $20 each or two for $35. Please call 225-201-0993 to order a copy.

The Commission on Accreditation (COA) announced several significant changes to accreditation criteria in May that may be implemented immediately. These include:

- What Content Is Eligible for ANCC Continuing Nursing Education (CNE) Credit?
- Needs Assessment and Identification of a Gap in Knowledge, Skill and/or Practice
- Method of data collection
- ANCC Accreditation statement (or applicable approval statement for Approved Providers and Individual Activity Applicants) must be provided to learners:

1. prior to the start of every educational activity, and
2. on each certificate of completion.

The ANCC Accreditation statement (or applicable approval statement for Approved Providers and Individual Activity Applicants) must begin and end on its own line of text. The COA understands that with multiple methods of delivering information to learners, particularly through electronic media, it may be difficult to include the ANCC Accreditation statement (or applicable approval statement for Approved Providers and Individual Activity Applicants) on all communications and marketing materials. Therefore, the COA has revised the requirements to reflect a more flexible approach, while still ensuring that learners are provided with the information prior to choosing or participating in an educational activity.

In an effort to assist in planning a continuing nursing education activity, the following information is re-printed from the July, 2013 ANCC Director’s Update. The information was compiled by Kathy Chappell, MSN, RN, ANCC Director.

Needs Assessment and Identification of a Gap in Knowledge, Skill and/or Practice

The process of planning educational activities requires Nurse Planners to systematically gather information, then utilize this information to develop educational interventions that are designed to close a gap between what learners currently know or do in practice and what learners should know or do in practice. The process of systematically gathering information is known as needs assessment. Data collected via a needs assessment are used to determine why a gap in practice exists and then an educational activity is designed to address that gap. It is important to note that “practice” should not be inferred to mean “clinical practice” but rather the practice setting of the learner which may be in administration, clinical practice, education, or research.

Method of data collection

The purpose of collecting and then evaluating data is to identify problems or opportunities for improvement that currently exist in practice, determine the reason for the gap in practice, and then design educational interventions to address those problems or opportunities. When choosing a method to collect data, then, it is critical that Nurse Planners utilize one that will result in data that can be used to describe problems or opportunities for improvement in practice.

For example, one method of collecting data is to use end of activity evaluation forms or stakeholder surveys. While there is nothing inherently wrong with using these methods, they often include questions that are similar to the following:

1. Please indicate what you would like to know more about in future conferences:
   a. Free text response

2. Please indicate which of the following topics you would like to know more about:
   a. Hypertension
   b. Congestive heart failure
   c. Obesity
   d. Diabetes

The problem with these types of questions is that they do not elicit responses that address the reason why learners would like to know more about the topic, or the problems in practice that they are facing in relation to these topics.

There are more effective strategies for soliciting this information via evaluation forms or survey questions that can easily be integrated into the process of collecting data. For example, these questions are designed to focus on problems in practice:

1. Please describe a problem or issue in practice that you are currently experiencing:
2. Please indicate which of the following topics you would like to know more about. Describe a situation you have encountered in practice related to this topic.
3. Will this educational activity help you improve your own (administrative, educational, clinical, research) practice? If not, why not?

If there is opportunity for improvement in practice is identified through a method such as analysis of a sentinel event or evaluation of performance improvement outcomes, Nurse Planners should implement a similar drill down process to identify the reason why the problem in practice exists.

Consider the following questions:

- Do nurses not know about the problem/opportunity for improvement?
- Are nurses not able to describe what to do and/or demonstrate what to do in relation to the problem/opportunity for improvement?
- Do nurses not know how to do or are capable of doing in practice in relation to the problem/opportunity for improvement?
- Or, is there some other reason that the problem/opportunity for improvement exists?

Findings of the needs assessment

Findings of the needs assessment are the data that identify the problem or opportunity for improvement in practice, validate the need for the educational activity, and identify the gap in knowledge, skill and/or practice. Documentation of findings must be present in activity files submitted to ANCC by Accredited Providers and to ANCC Accredited Approvers by Approved Providers or Individual Activity Applicants. Findings may include data such as pertinent facts/statistics from the literature, evidence of outcomes data or an executive summary of aggregate findings.

An example of evidence submitted in relation to the needs assessment/gap analysis might look something like this:

- In our organization, only 20% of patients who smoke were routinely counseled about smoking cessation.
- According to the American Lung Association, all patients who smoke should be routinely counseled about smoking cessation.
- We wanted to improve compliance with routine counseling from 20% to 50% in the next 3 months, with a further target of improving compliance to 100% within one year.
- Evidence collected by observation of nursing practice and questionnaires to nurses revealed that 95% of nurses knew that all patients who smoke should be counseled but more than 75% indicated that they were uncomfortable bringing up the topic because they expected resistance to be high. We understood that this evidence demonstrated a gap in skill. Nurses lacked the ability to apply what they knew.

- Therefore, our educational strategy will focus on stages of change with opportunities for nurses to practice addressing the topic with standardized patients.

Focusing on problem or opportunities for improvement in practice will help Nurse Planners target their educational activities more effectively and utilize often limited resources more efficiently. In addition, educational activities that are designed to address a learner’s specific educational needs are more likely to be satisfying for the learner, and more likely to result in behavior change. For example, it would be frustrating and rather fruitless for nurses to participate in an educational activity designed to improve knowledge related to smoking counseling when the problem is related to nurses’ being uncomfortable with how to effectively counsel patients who smoke. If that is the problem in practice, then the educational activity should be designed to improve the ability of nurses to actually provide counseling, including strategies like discussing information about effective counseling techniques with an opportunity to practice/return demonstrate counseling techniques.

The ANCC Research Department completed an updated literature table for nursing continuing education study outcomes. This table has been posted to the ANCC Accreditation web page under Resources under “CE References Table” at the following link: http://www.nursecredentialing.org/Accreditation/ResourcesServices.

Unique Identifier
ANCC now requires a roster with participant names with a unique identifier to be collected. Some unique identifiers can be phone number, birth month and day, email, etc. Do not use the SS# or parts of the social security number. The purpose of the unique identifier is so that the provider can retrieve a certificate or other information for the individual. The Activity File for each program must contain the number of contact hours awarded to each participant for the activity. The roster is a great way to keep track. Add an extra column or some method to show that each of the participants received a certificate. One provider’s best method is to do the evaluation on line. The individual must log in and complete some demographic data and then the evaluation. After completing the evaluation, the individual is directed to a link to print the certificate of completion. The provider can then print a list of the individuals that have completed the evaluation.

LSNA has also established an email for the Lead Nurse Reviewer for Individual Educational Activities. At this time, Dr. Debra Shelton serves as Lead Reviewer for IEAs. You can email her with any questions or concerns at IERA@lsna.org.

One complaint is all it takes.

Whether warranted or not, one complaint to the state licensing board, one lawsuit filed, and your career can be over—just like that. We’ve seen it happen.

Don’t count on your employer’s malpractice insurance to protect you. There are just too many “what ifs.”

What if...
- What if your employer’s policy isn’t large enough to cover you and your coworkers?
- What if you’re brought before the state licensing board? Most employers plans don’t cover that.
- What if you’re sued for an incident that occurred outside of the workplace?

You could spend thousands of dollars out of your own pocket in legal fees. Or worse, you could end up losing everything you’ve worked so hard for—your ability to practice nursing.

What you need
With an individual professional liability policy from a provider of professional liability insurance for nurses like you. Benefits for covered claims include:
- Up to $1 million in protection for each claim
- Up to $2 million aggregate
- Deposition assistance
- Reimbursement of defense costs, legal fees and court costs for covered claims
